AmandaMakesAllTheThings

A multi-talented creative professional with 20+ years of experience in all aspects of consumer product design, product development and product management. Adept at spearheading the creation of highly successful product lines across diverse categories, leading cross-functional teams and fostering collaboration with internal and external stakeholders. Now growing my skill set with UX/UI training and ready to utilize my accumulated skills and experience to take on new challenges in a creative capacity.

EXPERIENCE

May 2025 - Present

- FREELANCE - Hinkler - Childrens craft kit product development, Adult craft market research & product proposals
- FREELANCE - Pulsar - Production help
- CONTINUING ED - Google UX Design Professional Certificate

July 2024 - May 2025 Hinkler Books, Program Developer

- Spearheaded the evaluation and revitalization of the children's craft product line for the Oh My Craft (OMC) brand, identifying white space and innovation opportunities that secured a 4-foot in-line placement in all UK Hobby Craft stores, as well as individual sku orders with 4 other retailers so far.
- Led the development of 17 new craft kits across four pricing tiers, managing the full product lifecycle including concept, sourcing, pricing, and component testing in collaboration with global suppliers.
- Conducted in-depth research on packaging solutions and created new packaging styles and dielines tailored to the OMC brand identity.
- Collaborated closely with the Design Studio and Editorial teams to direct product design, craft instruction development, and creative direction for freelance crafters and artists.

Pulsar Eco Products 2006 - July 2024

2023 - July 2024 Product Director

- Developed the Product Department from inception, spearheading recruitment efforts for product developers and product managers. Authored training materials, developed standard operating procedures (SOP's) and streamlined operational workflows for efficient project management.
- Managed the end-to-end product development process.
- Lead direct communication with factories regarding sourcing and new product development initiatives. Reviewed new material options, manufacturing options and testing innovative finishing techniques.
- Created comprehensive product specifications. Over the past three years developed more than 400 unique specs, ensuring meticulous attention to detail.
- Performed extensive product research across multiple categories including crafts, home decor and stationery, facilitating informed decision-making and strategic planning for diverse product lines.
- Oversaw the execution of all front-end product management duties, encompassing market research, MSRP determination, and researching display options. Constructed Planograms (POGs) and devised line lists.
- Participated in pricing reviews with our Sales and Global Supply teams, providing insights and analysis to inform strategic pricing decisions and optimize profitability.
- Integral member of the company's Leadership Operating Group, actively contributing to major decision-making processes, troubleshooting issues, and setting company-wide SOP's to drive organizational efficiency and success.

FYI, this was good experience, but I'm not interested in another director roll.
